

The Scoutmaster Transition

Big changes are among us.

Dan Hibbs, our previous Scoutmaster, has stepped into another role for Troop 280. In his place is Mr. Faille, the official new Scoutmaster. Welcome, Mr. Faille!

From the beginning, Dan had been an excellent leader. Four years ago, the position for Scoutmaster opened up. Knowing of the need for it to be filled, he stepped up to the plate gladly. Dan recalls wanting to be active in Scouts before to taking the position. "I wanted to spread my Eagle Scout knowledge," he says.

Dan's favorite aspects of being Scoutmaster include watching the scouts grow, and having fun on camping trips. His plans for the future involve being a great committee chairperson, and he hopes that Troop 280 will continue to grow, prosper, and serve the youth for another 50 years.

Mr. Faille is the new Scoutmaster. He joined Troop 280 due to his son, Brendan, and his friends. Upon getting to know Dan and learning of the changes that were to be made, he decided to take the position because he knew he would be in the troop for a while. Mr. Faille wishes to continue Dan's legacy. He says, "The scouts run the troop very well."

Mr. Faille loves sports; he's played soccer for over thirty years and enjoys baseball very much. With three college degrees behind his back, Mr. Faille is a tech buff at heart. It is his hobby and career.

Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the international Scouting Movement, said that being Scoutmaster was like being an older brother. Both Dan and Mr. Faille agree with this and say that they find the position to be enjoyable and fascinating.

Thank you, Dan, for being an excellent Scoutmaster. Everyone agrees that you were awesome, and we look forward to seeing you in your new position. Thank you, Mr. Faille, for taking up this role. We are excited to have you on board, and we are looking forward to what is in store for the future. The both of you are serving your community well!
